ITALY READY TO SPEND BILLIONS ON AFRICAN WAR

ETHIOPIAN NOTE BEING STUDIED BY MUSSOLINI

Fascist Grand Council To Hold Meeting Tonight

Rome, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Benito Mussolini gave deep study tonight to an Ethiopian note calling Italians the aggressors in recent border conflicts which officials said earlier today made the situation "very serious."

Nevertheless, there appeared this evening to be less concern in government circles over the prospect of hostilities in Africa this through an authoritative source said Italy was prepared to spend $850,000,000 in an African campaign if war breaks out.

While the widespread mobilization ordered after the latest Italo-Ethiopian clash proceeded amid officially imposed secrecy, Mussolini presided at another session of the supreme council of defense, the second in two days. The Ethiopian situation was believed to have been thoroughly discussed.

A two-year campaign in Ethiopia, with expenditures up to 10,000,000,000 lire (about $250,000,000), is the basis of Italy's plan for the event that hostilities break out. It was authoritatively reported today.

Whether or not the expedition is sent apparently depends on the Italian reaction to Emperor Haile Selassie's vigorous note denying Italian charges of Ethiopian aggression, and on the meeting of the Fascist grand council tomorrow night.

This council is the highest legislative body in Italy, being entrusted with such mighty problems as the succession to the premiership and to the throne, and generally gives the final word to the king's most important problems.

Well informed circles expressed the opinion that the deciding moment in the present international crisis may well come in the course of its sessions.

BIRTH CONTROL ADVOCATE WILL RAISE WARCHEST

Margaret Sanger Will Carry Her Fight Into Every State in Union

Washington, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Margaret Sanger, veteran campaigner for birth control, today announced a "war chest" of at least $100,000 would be raised to carry her persistent fight into every one of the 48 states.

"Fifty field workers will go into action within a month," said Mrs. Sanger. "By the end of March we expect to have a million signatures to petitions asking immediate enactment of the birth control law."

That was her declaration of war against the tabling last week by the house committee of the Pierce bill to permit dissemination of contraceptive information through doctors and clinics.

It followed celebration of the twenty-first birthday of the birth control movement at a dinner here last night at which Mrs. Sanger recommended the creation of a federal population bureau.

Mrs. Sanger said it had been estimated that the law restricting all contraceptive information with obscenity and pornographic pictures, had been "responsible, directly or indirectly for the deaths of a million mothers."

RICHEST GIRL IN WORLD HAS QUIET WEDDING

Doris Duke Married To J. H. Cromwell In New York

New York, Feb. 13.—(AP)—America's richest girl, Doris Duke, was married today to James H. R. Cromwell, knickerbocker scion, inflationist and writer on political-economic topics.

They were bound tonight, aboard the Italian liner Conte Di Savoia, for a honeymoon in Italy and Egypt.

The tall, blonde, pretty daughter of the late tobacco magnate, James Buchanan Duke, is 22.

Her husband is 35, the son by her first marriage of Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia. In 1928 he was divorced from the former Miss Delphine Dodge, of the Detroit automobile family, whom he married in 1920.

Although the names of Miss Duke and Cromwell have been linked for several years in society gossip columns—and although they've been together quite frequently of late in Newport, Palm Beach and in New York's fair circles—the wedding was a surprise.

The ceremony—at 10:30 a. m. at the Duke mansion on the corner of Fifth avenue and 78th street—was but another example of Miss Duke's desire to eschew the limelight.

At the request of her physician, Dr. Richard A. Hoffman, Deputy City Clerk Philip A. Hines went to the Duke home early today and issued the license.

Half an hour after Hines' visit, Miss Duke and Cromwell were married by Supreme Court Justice Burt Jay Humphrey, a friend of the Duke family. Miss Duke, who has never flaunted her millions, stood adamant against an ostentatious church wedding.

The small group of witnesses included the mothers of the bride and bridegroom, Mrs. Stotesbury and Mrs. James B. Duke. Dr. Hoffman and former Supreme Court Justice Norman S. Dike, a family friend; Walker Inman, Miss Duke's half-brother, and Eaton Cromwell, who served his brother as best man.

ADMINISTRATION LEADERS PLAN TO LEVY NEW TAXES

Will Match Expenditures Above Budget With New Revenues

Washington, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Administration leaders tonight vowed themselves to what they consider the disagreeable but apparently inescapable task of levying new taxes before the session ends.

They disclosed plans for matching all expenditures above budget estimates with new revenues in accord with a challenge to that effect, flung at the national legislature only today by President Roosevelt.

When adjournment nears, a summary of appropriations will be set against revised estimates of receipts, these leaders said. Taxes to cover the excess of the former would be lumped into a bill already planned for re-enacting a list of nuisance taxes which otherwise would expire in July.

Although the chief executive's statement of today dealt directly with a comparatively inconsequential extra-budget outlay of $16,000,000, much more than that was actually involved. Into his words many read a reference to payment of the bonus.

Mr. Roosevelt announced that he would approve full restoration of the government pay cut on April 1 as recently written into the first deficit bill, instead of July 1, the date he originally recommended. But, he added:

"It should be noted that this sum was not contained in the budget estimates and that consideration should properly be given to methods by which government revenues can be increased to meet this and any other new appropriations which tend to throw the regular budget out of balance."

RELIEF BILL OUT OF COMMITTEE

By Cecil B. Dickson Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Feb. 13.—(AP)—After almost three weeks of pulling and hauling, the administration today extracted its $4,880,000,000 relief bill from the senate appropriations committee with a good bit of the power demanded by President Roosevelt's held intact.

Administration forces finally effected a compromise in the committee on the McGarran "prevailing wage" amendment and then beat back by a single vote a move to chop off a $2,000,000,000 lump.

The battling over the bill is far from ended, however. Stiff tests await these same propositions when the measure reaches the senate floor either tomorrow or Friday.

DREAM COMES TRUE

East St. Louis, Ill., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Last night L. Kaskelson, sexton of Agudas Achim Temple, dreamed one of his sons had been killed in an automobile accident.

This morning he participated in daily services at the temple, as has been his custom, and told members of the congregation of the dream.

As Kaskelson started for home one son ran up to inform him that another son, Sam Kaskelson, 37, had been crushed to death shortly before when a Pennsylvania train crashed into his truck.

Football Player Meets "Cops," Is Held For Downs

Chicago, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Frank Hammon describes himself as "a mighty footballer."

But a police squad held him to no gain early today as he dived through a hole in a grocery store door. Hammon, former high school athlete, gave this explanation to Sergeant John O'Donnell:

"As I walked by the store my mind clicked. I was back on the football field. The crowd roared. There was a hole in the line. I plunged through."

RUDY VALLEE TO PAY WIFE $100 WEEKLY

Mrs. Vallee Loses Her Case Which Ends In Wild Disorder

By Francis A. Jamieson Associated Press Staff Writer

New York, Feb. 13.—(AP)—In a tumultuous session, verging on the comic, supreme court justice Salvatore Cotillo today held that Rudy Vallee was not entitled to more than $100 weekly maintenance from her crooning husband, Rudy Vallee.

Upholding the agreement under which the singing orchestra leader is paying his wife $100 a week, justice Cotillo held that Mrs. Vallee had not been coerced into signing it.

In granting a motion by Vallee's wife to take the stand and prove the allegations, the agreement, justice Cotillo said:

"I find no evidence of duress or coercion employed to induce the plaintiff (Mrs. Vallee) to enter into the separation agreement. The wife produced no proof of the inadequacy of her allowance. The failure of the wife to take the stand and prove the allegations casts doubt on the good faith of her actions."

Then the comedy began. Mrs. Vallee's counsel wanted to disqualify justice Cotillo. He was made to take the witness stand. There were a few minutes of wild confusion with Cotillo's gavel pounding, and shouting back and forth.

Benjamin Hartstein, of Mrs. Vallee's counsel wanted to "outline" his case. Cotillo shouted that he wouldn't let him do it while Benjamin Cohn, another of Mrs. Vallee's attorneys, who is from Los Angeles, was at the counsel table. Hartstein refused to ask his associate to leave.

"I heard the judge had offered to fight with Cohn," said Hartstein, referring to a heated exchange between the court and Cohn last week.

"Take the stand," ordered Cotillo. He then asked Hartstein:

"Do you know that I offered to engage in fist fight of your knowledge?"

"I was not present," Hartstein began, but he was ordered to "step down" by Cotillo. Later, after a conference in Cotillo's chambers he said everything was "cleared up."

Well informed circles expressed the opinion that the deciding moment in the present international crisis may well come in the course of its sessions.

Illinois Relief Commission Gives Figures to Assembly, But Action is Postponed

By Robert P. Howard, Associated Press Staff Writer

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 13.—(AP)—The Illinois Emergency relief commission today gave the legislature more information over which to ponder, but the problem of financing the unemployed was not put off.

Complying with a legislative request, the relief commission formally made public its financial reports and the names of its employees.

Governor Horner conferred with Otto C. Doering of Chicago, chairman of a commission appointed several months ago to study long range plans for caring for the jobless. The word was passed out that Doering's report probably would be submitted in two or three weeks, but there was no comment on what the findings might be.

The governor's scheduled conference with executive committee members, the second meeting in efforts to decide upon how the state should raise $27,000,000 more for relief this year, was postponed until Tuesday, when the members and officials of the relief commission will appear before a joint legislative session.

The relief commission reported, in two volumes placed on the desk of each legislator, that during December it was caring for 1,141,493 persons, or 15 per cent of the population of Illinois.

For 25 months ending with December the commission spent $223,722, 778.30 of federal and state funds. Income from bonds and expenditures up to the end of November previously was made public by the Associated Press.

In December, there were 306,829 resident families on relief, an increase of 289,040 over November. Cook county had 145,155 or slightly less than half of the total families on relief.

December expenditures were $12,819,666.32, compared with $11,555,778.34 in November, the previous high record.

WITNESSES TAKE STAND IN TRIAL OF P. KENAMER

Youth Is Branded As Originator Of Three Criminal Plots

Pawnee, Okla., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Phil Kenamer, 19-year-old son of a federal judge, was branded today as the originator of at least three criminal plots as former friends testified against him at his trial for the alleged murder of John F. Gorrell, Jr.

Kenamer, who admitted he killed Gorrell, with whom he planned an extortion gesture against the family of Homer F. Wilcox, wealthy oilman, claims that he entered the plot only to frustrate it and that he killed Gorrell last Thanksgiving night in self-defense when the latter became enraged at his failure to deliver an extortion note to the Wilcox family.

On the defense side of the day's hearing was listed admission from Floyd J. Huff, chief prosecution witness, that he had served three prison terms and an agreement striking out all reference to and all testimony of Mrs. O. L. Harmon, the prosecution's much-exploited "mystery witness."

Mrs. Harmon, Tulsa apartment house operator, asserted that she was afraid to testify, that "my life has been threatened." Defense attorneys demanded a mistrial and agreed to withdraw the motion only after the prosecution agreed to withdraw Mrs. Harmon. On motion of both sides she was ordered held under arrest until her story could be checked.

LABOR REPORTS BUSINESS GOOD; WANT MORE PAY

Would Bring About Increases Thru Strong Trade Union Organizations

By Joseph L. Miller

Washington, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor reported today that business was improving but insisted that wages must be increased to insure a continued upturn.

In its monthly survey, the Federation noted a 12 per cent rise in business last month over January, 1934, and said that "business observers" expected industry at least to hold its own through the spring season.

"Business is in its fourth rise since the summer of 1932," the survey said, "and has reached a level 22 points above the depression bottom. Nevertheless it is still 20 per cent below normal."

The Federation also threatened its report with reminders of recent disagreements with the administration. It complained that the jurisdiction of the National Labor relations boards, which it praised, had been curbed. Conversely, it criticized boards set up by certain industries under "employer controlled" code authorities.

"If labor is denied agencies which give a fair hearing it has no means of redress but to strike," the survey said. "Widespread strikes this spring would jeopardize progress toward recovery."

The Federation argued, too, that the surest means of bringing about the wage increases was through "strong trade union organization."

At the same time the Federation's executive council wrestled with the steel labor problem, and prominent industrialists reiterated their opposition to the Federation-backed 30-hour week bill before a senate judiciary subcommittee.

Newspaper publishers and Sears Roebuck and company, joined the automobile industry in denouncing the 30-hour week bill as a move toward worse rather than better times.

RETURN INDICTMENTS

Kansas City, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The federal government struck at liquor smuggling into dry states today through the grand jury indictment of 15 persons on conspiracy counts.

The Railway Express Company, Inc., and the American Distributing Company of Kansas City were accused of conspiring to ship liquor into Colorado, a wet state, under "false addresses" and then delivering it to Omaha, Topeka, Wichita, Hutchinson, and Eureka, Kas., and Tulsa, Okla.

FIRE AT HARVEY

Chicago, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Firemen of three suburbs today joined to curb a fire in suburban Harvey that did damage estimated at $68,000 at the Eagle department store in the heart of the business district.

CONVICTED FOR KIDNAP-MURDER OF LINDY BABY

Man Held Grudge Against Police, Lands In Lockup

Chicago, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Walter Loris, 25, had a big grudge against the police department today. A man of action, he marched right down to headquarters. He twisted the handles off the automobiles of Chief of Detectives Sullivan and Deputy Chief of Detectives. Then he hurled them through the window of Storms' car.

Patrolman Perry Tolby watched the strange exhibition, decided it was a bit irregular and arrested Loris.

MRS. HAUPTMANN HEARS VERDICT; STILL HAS HOPE

Wife Says "There Is Nothing Left For Me"

By Mary Elizabeth Plummer, Flemington, N. J., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann was condemned to the electric chair tonight by the jury that tried him for the kidnap-murder of Baby Lindbergh.

White and unshaven, he tottered slightly as he stood between his guards and heard himself ordered to die in the electric chair.

He was sentenced to die in the week of March 18, but an almost certain appeal to the New Jersey court of appeals and errors would stay the execution.

The high court is not likely to pass upon the appeal until late in May.

The jury of eight men and four women spent 11 hours and 6 minutes in a bare room of the old courthouse where Hauptmann had been on trial since January 2 before they reached their verdict.

"We find the defendant, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, guilty of murder in the first degree," intoned Foreman Charles Walton, Sr., in the deathly quiet of the littered, smoked-filled courtroom.

Anna Hauptmann, tears rolling down her cheeks as her husband went silently back to his cell, cried "there is nothing left for me."

But she dried her eyes as she pushed through the thronged courtroom and left by a rear door.

"I am not afraid," she said. "I still hope."

ROBERT JENKINS LOSES HIS FIGHT WITH STARVATION

Granite City Baby Dies Wednesday, Is Buried Immediately

Granite City, Ill., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Baby Robert Jenkins, doomed to early death but whose tiny body fought valiantly against starvation for seven days, died today and was given an immediate burial.

Born with a stricture of the esophagus which prevented it from taking food, the baby's abnormality was not discovered until after an operation for an intestinal malformation. Attending physicians then agreed the infant was too weak to undergo further surgery.

Quiet funeral services were held this afternoon at Madison, Ill. Burial was in nearby Calvary cemetery, where the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Jenkins of Nameoki, Ill., purchased a lot several days ago.

Dr. John H. Phillips, who attended the baby, but who declined to make a general comment during the life of the child, then issued a statement in which he said it did not die "a painful death of starvation."

"Let me say," he explained, "that young babies x x x are not sensitive to pain as are adults and, besides this, the baby was given fluids and medication sufficient to keep it free from pain."

ALL FORFEITED PROPERTY MAY BE RETURNED

Illinois Senate Bill Would Investigate Tax Cases Thruout State

By Milburn P. Akers, Springfield, Ill., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Quickly approved in the Senate today was a proposed investigation of property forfeited for non-payment of taxes to determine whether a compromise could be reached under which the state would return it to the original owners.

A joint resolution was adopted without dissent in the Senate after it was expanded so as to cover downstate as well as Cook county.

"In the interest of good government a just and fair compromise should be effected on real estate taxes and costs," said the resolution by Senator Francis J. Loughran, Chicago Democrat.

The resolution, sent to the House, would empower five senators, five representatives and a group of officials from each county "to make a full and complete investigation for the purpose of effecting some plan of compromise on the general and special real estate taxes and costs."

Hope was expressed that the commission would report its recommendations soon so that the General Assembly could turn back to the owners the $16,639 parcels of Cook county real estate and a large but unestimated amount of downstate property upon payment of part of the delinquent taxes.

The Explosion

The biggest news story that has broken in this city since the tornado of last July 10 was the explosion Wednesday which wrecked the Diamond Service station and restaurant at the corner of South Main street and College avenue. The force of the explosion was enormous and destructive, and it is fortunate that lives were not lost in the catastrophe.

Only two persons were sufficiently injured to require hospital care, and their injuries are not considered serious. However, the property damage was heavy. A fire would have been preferable to such an explosion. It could have been combatted and controlled. But the force of the explosion could not be controlled, and there was no way of combating it.

The unusualness and suddenness of the thing gave it news value. The wreckage of the station furnished striking photograph material. The hole in the re-enforced concrete sidewalk, shattered glass everywhere, gaping windows, and the interior strewn with wreckage gave ample evidence of the tremendous force that was let loose beneath the building and street.

The Jacksonville Journal and Courier were able to give the event full coverage and to secure photographs for the afternoon edition. In view of the fact that the newspaper plant here has no engraving department and that the work of making the cuts had to be done in Springfield, the service given the reading public of this community is something of which the local press feels justly proud.

$5,000 In Russia!

There may not be much money in Russia for the Russians, but when an American writes a book that pleases the soviets, they pile up advance royalties for him. Jack Conroy of Moberly, Mo., must go to Russia to secure $5,000 of such royalties on his recent book "Disinherited," which is expected to have a sale of 250,000 copies in the soviet republics.

He must go after the money, because there is an embargo on shipment of Russian currency into this country, and Uncle Sam has no way of making Russian paper negotiable. However, the prize will be well worth the trip, provided Conroy has better luck at collecting than the American government has had.

The Missouri man is a writer of novels, and is planning more books. He writes in a way that evidently satisfies the communist mind of Russia, but might not be so acceptable to the capitalist mind in the United States. But even so he is to be congratulated on his ability to sell something in Russia and have the money held for him to come and get it.

Too Much Pepper

There is no sympathy in the world today for any man or group of men who will corner foodstuffs. Consequently the jam into which a bunch of British speculators have gotten themselves in cornering the pepper market makes them subjects for a good horse laugh. The joke will be better if they lose.

Late in 1933 Carabel Bishirgian, an Armenian speculator, led a corner on white pepper. The price was then 13 cents a pound. The Armenian and his gang succeeded in boosting the price to 36 cents a pound and storing up 18,000 tons of pepper in London warehouses. To this storage some 20,000 tons have been added, which is altogether too much pepper in one place, but enough to season the food of Europe for three years to come. Now the price of pepper has begun to skid, and some firms that got on the corner are wobbling. Somebody is going to sneeze good and plenty before this is over, and it won't be the upper consumer.

Any person or group that secures a corner on any kind of food, be it only pepper, shows mighty little regard for humanity. Forcing up food prices is a nefarious business if by so doing it is expected to make a profit without increasing the utility of the food.

Costs and reasonable profits which go to the producer, the processor and the distributor are of course legitimate. But when there is speculation for the purpose of buying up the available supply and holding it out of consumption for higher prices, the sin against humanity is grievous. No one has a moral right so to do, and the laws should be so fixed that there would be no legal right for cornering food.

Mother of Five

From The Macomb Journal
The Dionnes, parents of quintuplets, are having a sort of hectic time of it, what with a suit for a million dollars damage because the five infants were not exhibited at the Century of Progress, as per contract, and a denunciation from a high official of the dominion of Canada on the ground that they are improperly exploiting the infants and their fame.

The Dionnes, who, according to press dispatches, are simple folks, were doubtless dazzled by the contract which was offered them for the showing of the infants at the World Fair and which they signed. Later when the health of the children would not permit it, they were not taken. Since then the publicity which was given the Dionnes a visit to Chicago, and a variety of gifts and invitations.

The law should interfere whenever it appears that the quintuplets or any other children are going to be harmfully exploited. But we consider the Canadian government official out of order in his bitter attack on the Dionnes for going to Chicago. If a city wants the Dionnes as its guests or if any individual or group wants to send them a gift, they have a right to accept. Didn't Lindbergh make a good-will tour after his flight to Paris?

For that matter, if they keep the quintuplets at home and out of it, we cannot see where anyone is going to be seriously harmed by it if the Dionnes later on go in for testimonial advertising and personal appearances that will net them a few dollars. They have five besides the quintuplets and getting along must be a problem in the cabin in the Canadian backwoods.

Progress In Health

Sometimes one gets discouraged with the progress of medicine.

One sees, despite modern knowledge and facilities, the suffering of friends, the all-too-wide prevalence of disease. And one wonders just how great is this medical progress in practical results.

Now and then comes an inconspicuous answer which ought to be more generally known. For instance, the New York State Department of Health reports that not a single case of smallpox was reported in that state in 1934.

In the "good old days" of our forefathers, every second case was pitted by the ravages of this disease. Now sanitation, preventive medicine, vaccination, have all but conquered it.

In view of the comparative newness of modern medicine as a science, progress has really been a marvel. Sickness, disease, death, may never be conquered, but credit for the remarkable progress that can be definitely shown ought to be given freely.

That $200 a Month

If the Townsend plan passes Congress and becomes law, the country must not be shocked to witness many "May and December" weddings. Young men who are out of jobs will be marrying elderly women to help spend that $200 a month. Young girls who find pleasure in being old men's sweethearts rather than young men's slaves, will be marrying gentlemen of advanced years to bask in the luxury the big pension will bring.

Romance presents one way of solving some of the problems which will arise under the Townsend plan. There will of course be unemployment, and there will be poverty, for the cost of living will be so heavy on the wage-earners that they cannot live on their incomes, even tho they will be increased.

Hence the pretty stenographer who can't keep herself in lingerie on her income, will tie up with an aged gent who will be soft enough to spend part of his $200 a month to satisfy her whims. The struggling young man will swallow his pride and get himself a staid and aged spouse who is foolish enough to dote on the bloom of youth and to exchange cash for petting. In fact there is no telling what human beings will do for $200 a month.

SO THEY SAY

We are not aiming at a select and limited understanding, but at peace and well-being for all.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary.

What I saw during my brief spell of death has made me regret that I ever came back.

John Fackering, British gardener who was brought back to life.

Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington—Certain senators are taking a close squint at Admiral Christian Joy Peoples.

Peoples has been reported as likely to have a large finger in distribution of the $4,000,000 work relief fund. The administration sent him to Capitol Hill to explain, after a fashion, its bill appropriating that sum.

He has a long and honorable record as the navy's paymaster and buyer. For more than a year, as head of the treasury's procurement section he has bought government supplies and built government buildings.

He has been described as "Roosevelt's closest friend in the navy"—the friendship dates back to war-time—and is honest, amiable, and well-liked.

But many senators, already shocked at the proposal to hand all that money to Roosevelt with no strings attached, are prone to check up carefully on anyone likely to be a key figure in doling out the cash. They know politicians, contractors, and mere grafters are in a lair of anticipation.

Linked With Lobby
It was unfortunate for Peoples that a lobbyist's confidential memorandum laid before the Senate munitions committee revealed the admiral as consultant in a plan to bombard Roosevelt with telegrams urging him to get the navy to rescind its rejection of bids by the Bath (Me.) Iron Works for two destroyers.

Certain persons—and I'd hate to say they weren't admirers of "Honest Harold Ikes"—began to whisper that Peoples might be a bit too susceptible to the wiles of politicians and lobbyists and that perhaps "the people around Peoples" didn't comprise the best imaginable staff.

They pointed out that in secret testimony before the Glass sub-committee, Peoples had described an assistant, Max Dunning, as "a very able engineer" who had "resigned" from the PWA housing division "to accept an appointment in the procurement division."

Record Isn't Dabbling
The Who's Who record describes Dunning as an architect, not as an engineer. In other records he appears as a victim of the cleanout in the PWA housing division which followed an investigation and decision by Ikes that the division, under Director Robert Kohn, had made a mess of things and had been far too generous in its valuations of property presented by promoters.

The procurement division early obtained $14,000,000 from PWA for federal buildings and the record as of Jan. 1 showed 44 per cent of that under contract as compared with 96 per cent of funds allotted for agriculture, 94 per cent for both justice and labor, 96 per cent for navy, 83 per cent for commerce, and 70 per cent for Ikes' Interior Department.

X-Ray on Farley
Still other records being contemplated on Capitol Hill seem to go a long way toward explaining recent rumors here that Louis Glavis, chief investigator for PWA and Secretary Ikes, had "investigated" Postmaster General Farley—to Farley's intense indignation.

Last summer Glavis and his men investigated the $4,250,000 post-office

EXPLOSION INSURANCE
M. C. HOOK & CO.

annex building and the $6,000,000 federal courts building in New York.

The General Builders' Supply Corporation had sold about $195,000 of cement, plaster, brick, and terra cotta blocks to the contractor of sub-contractor for the annex job and about $185,000 of materials for the federal courts job.

General Builders' Supply is known in New York as "Farley's company" and the postmaster general, although he resigned as its president, was still a stockholder and presumably in control.

Bids Are Sifted
The Ikes-Glavis forces were especially interested in the bids on the annex job.

The procurement division had asked for bids four times. A company which had refused to buy supplies from the Farley company was low on the second and third bids, which were rejected.

A company which had been doing business with the Farley concern for years was low on the fourth bid and won the contract.

The Engineering News-Record charged the Treasury Department with "chiseling" or "deliberate attempt on the part of the administration to eliminate a bidder."

Glavis Stays Mum
Other subsequent controversies as to specifications and materials were also investigated. But there's no evidence publicly available to show that Glavis found anything wrong, and Glavis won't comment.

One hears talk on Capitol Hill of a proposal in the Senate that treasury and PWA records bearing on the investigation be revealed. (Copyright, 1935, NEA Service, Inc.)

To the Editor of the Journal and Courier:

Beverly Hills, Calif.—Just reading Prosecutor Wilentz' speech and it was greater than Reilly's. By the way Wilentz wired me that no prosecution attorney had talked over the radio about the case. Its in the jurors hands now and not ours, so all our getting messed up in anger and arguments won't do us any good. I wonder if the jurors' minds were made up early like all the rest of ours were. I have had a hunch somehow that it would be a hung jury. If it is, or if its some other celebrated case, I wonder if they couldn't just sneak off in a back room somewhere with a judge, a jury, and a few witnesses, and then do it like the supreme court handles theirs, don't let us know anything till the decision. NASTY COLD?

Clear it up
as Specialists do

Remarkably effective new home treatment contains EPHEDRINE, used by nose specialists

When an "awful cold" has your head feeling "all stuffed up".... Use the new drops whose action is so reliable.... You save yourself hours of suffering; relief is immediate!

Don't decide that you've tried this ephedrine treatment just because you've used drops in the nose. Pine Balm Drops are a new development, and new treatment, and a scientific treatment which has not been available for home use until recently.

The nose and throat specialists, as you know, waste no time with slow-acting, old-fashioned remedies in relieving the nasal congestion and "stuffedness" of a miserable head cold. The doctor gives you comfort immediately by shrinking those swollen tissues and clearing away that germ-laden mucus—with ephedrine drops.

And now—in your own home or anywhere—you can get all the benefits of ephedrine, plus the extra effectiveness of the volatile medication of Pine Balm (the "rub" for colds)— because Pine Balm DROPS are a new combination of ephedrine and the volatile ingredients of Pine Balm itself. Be sure to ask your druggist for Pine Balm DROPS because no other product has this new and exclusive formula.

When you put a few Pine Balm Drops up each nostril, their volatile medication will bring almost instant relief from soreness, irritation and "stuffedness." These drops are so high-volatile and penetrating that they "reach the spot" in just a few seconds—they are active and effective for hours.

If you want new comfort and security all through the colds season, get Pine Balm Drops. Use them freely for any cold; children's colds, too. Swift, but perfectly safe. Won't harm inflamed tissues—will only help them.

Damage to Wrecked Filling Station is Estimated at $6,500

Large underground gasoline tanks located to the north of the building were said to be intact after the explosion.

Firemen were on the job quickly and turned lines of hose into some parts of the ruins that were smoking. Only a small amount of flame appeared and this was extinguished quickly.

Sidewalk Torn Out
The sidewalk on South Main street was blown out in a large section, the impact extending out into the street where it blasted up part of the pavement.

Firemen climbed to the roof and removed several cornices that were about to topple down.

Persons in the vicinity said the explosion made a peculiar sound, but not a loud report. It resembled something heavy that had been dropped.

Paul Trabue was walking on College avenue only a few yards from the D-X station. He said there was a terrific thud that caused him to stop in his tracks, and he realized that something had exploded. He rushed back to the corner and was among the first to view the wreckage.

Sheriff Kenneth Woods was coming out of the jail on an opposite corner of the intersection. He witnessed the explosion, stating that it seemed that the entire building was coming to pieces.

Several men at the American Legion Home a block west heard the detonation and hurried to the scene where they rendered assistance.

The scene of the wreckage is on a historic spot, marked by a tablet indicating that Ellen Hardin Walworth, one of the three founders of the D.A.R., was born there in 1832. This tablet is attached to the north wall of the building.

Other Buildings Damaged
Several second floor windows of the Hall Brothers Implement store across College avenue north of the service station were broken by flying debris.

At the Gustine Furniture store on South Main street, skylights were broken by flying pieces of wreckage.

The north wall of the building occupied by the Cornbelt Chevrolet Co. adjacent to the restaurant and service station was cracked in several places by the force of the explosion. Tiles placed against the wall were jarred from their position in piles and toppled to the floor. However, not a window in the long front of the building was broken.

The cracks in the wall were in two sections, one crack extending several feet from the front of the building west, and the other farther to the west.

Club Suggestions

The Supplemental Education Association suggests that the following be considered for programs and study along educational lines for the month of February. "February is a gala month, for it is not filled with celebration days? It is a romantic month for it is not the month when every one thinks of valentine tokens? It is a winter month with the promise of spring in the offing. It is a great month, for it is not the birth-month of many great people?"

It is the birth-month of Victor Herbert, Abraham Lincoln, Charles Dickens, Felix Mendelssohn, Thomas A. Edison, Joseph Jefferson, George Washington, James R. Lowell, George Frederick Handel, Victor Hugo, W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), Henry W. Longfellow, Marquis de Montcalm.

The list of those living includes: Fritz Kreisler, Charles A. Lindbergh, Elihu Root, Mary Garden, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Sir Wilfred Grenfell.

Hand in hand with these lists will go thoughts and choice of characters for interesting programs can easily be carried out in the form of puppet shows, episodes in the life of the character, story telling, a dramatized story, a dialogue, a musical program.

JACKSONVILLE SALESLADY FINDS LAXATIVE BREAD GIVES EXCELLENT ROUGHAGE

Hardin Avenue Woman Substantiates Claims of Peerless Baking Company That Their New Bread Relieves Constipation

A Hardin Avenue woman, employed as a saleslady found Honey Krushed Wheat Bread a pleasing and corrective diet.

"I have tested your new HONEY KRUSHED WHEAT BREAD and I am convinced, through my analysis, from a medical standpoint that you are offering a product which is helpful and beneficial from a health standpoint.

"The roughage made up of the entire whole wheat kernels, plus the honey, is very helpful in restoring normal elimination. I gladly recommend this bread to every one having trouble with faulty elimination."

Every child likes sweets. Often they eat too much candy and sugar. Many old folks like sugar and often it is harmful. In bread making a certain amount of sweetening is necessary, but in the formula recently secured pure honey replaces sugar. The result is Honey Krushed Wheat Bread. Children actually "cry for it."

Going back to nature the originators of this tissue-building health-giving bread, secured a pleasing combination of crushed wheat and honey, that is a quick relief and positive cure for constipation. Do you realize that most people take too little exercise? They ride too often, they don't walk enough. After eating a hearty meal, they motor down town, they ride street cars and busses, they take elevators to reach upper floors. Nature is given no assistance, internal organs become sluggish and in time refuse to function. Constipation is the result and the only recourse has been drugs, pills and cathartics.

Now comes a specially prepared Honey Krushed Wheat Bread that changes all that. They get roughage from crushed wheat that utilizes the whole kernel as well as the pulpy white inside. Our forefathers ate coarse breads, tough meats and even parched corn was a delicacy. They chopped wood and dug ditches, they exercised and they were healthy.

Sugar in those days was scarce and expensive. They tapped maple trees and made syrup. They found bees and secured honey. They never heard of diabetes or sugar of the liver. Constipation was unknown.

In Honey Krushed Wheat Bread you get exactly what the pioneer family thrived on—cracked wheat and honey, two of Nature's greatest stimulants of the gastric juices.

INSIST on genuine Honey Krushed Wheat bread, cellophane wrapped and sliced, with the cream and lavender wrapper around the loaf. Eat it regularly for 10 days. See how much better you feel.

Where Blast Is Believed To Have Originated

The above picture shows the force of the explosion which Wednesday morning badly damaged the Diamond D-X Service Station at the corner of College avenue and South Main street. Pictured above are the three large blocks of concrete which were blasted from the top of small rooms under the sidewalk. The explosion twisted the walls of the building, broke windows in the immediate vicinity, and injured three people.

Two More Volumes By Dr. M. L. Pontius Will Be Published

Local Pastor Contracts for Publication of Books on Religious Theme

With his first book now approaching its fourth edition Dr. M. L. Pontius of this city has just contracted publication of another volume entitled "Pathways to Comfort." The book will be published by the Messenger Corporation of Auburn, Ind.

The Central Christian church minister also is working on a third book, a volume of his sermons which will be titled "The Resurrection of the Unknown Soldier." This book will make its appearance next fall.

Dr. Pontius' first volume, "When Sorrow Comes" has met with such widespread success that a fourth edition will be necessary. It has received hundreds of favorable criticisms from the clergy throughout the country.

One of the latest theologians to add words of praise to the works of the local minister is Dr. Joseph Fort Newton formerly of the City Temple in London, England, now rector of St. James Church in Philadelphia.

Writing to the Cokesbury Press in Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Newton said:

"Ever since I read 'When Sorrow Comes,' by Myron Lee Pontius, I have wanted to write you about the book, which is the wisest, most hopeful and helpful book I have ever seen on the delicate and difficult subject with which it deals. All the more so, of course, because the author, having walked that shadowy way himself, and knowing the stillness which death makes when it passes by, speaks out of his own experience. At such times words seem so futile, so empty, so inadequate, that silence seems best—or the broken words we try to use—yet we are told to 'comfort one another with these words.'"

Such a book—and there is not another like it known to me—if put into the hands of the bereaved, is a minister of grace, giving comfort—that is, strength, as the word means—not merely condolence; and it is a real service to give this book to the world. It is so rich and real—even radiant—free from sentimentalism, and so practical too, both in doctrine and in detail, bringing a high faith to the healing of the deep hurts of love and death. My hope is that it will be widely used and be a blessing to many a broken and bewildered heart.

I am deeply grateful to you for publishing it.

Fraternally,
Joseph Fort Newton.

Coeds Will Give Valentine Dance

The Valentine Co-ed dance to be held at Illinois college on Friday evening at Baxter Hall will be a festive occasion. It has been announced that Bieber and his Jacksonville musicians will play for the dances during the evening, from eight-thirty until eleven-thirty.

The hall will be a brilliant scene with a gay valentine setting of hearts and lace in colors of red and white. Helen Klner and Eddie Page are in charge of this feature of the event. The souvenir programs will also carry out the Valentine theme in a novel design.

The dance is sponsored by the social committee and the chaperones for the evening will be: President and Mrs. H. C. Jaquith, Dean Clara B. Williams, Miss Isabelle Thompson and Mrs. Lillian C. Pickinger.

Among the Franklin visitors in the city Wednesday was Mrs. Lawrence Smith.

CHORAL CLUB NAMES SEMESTER OFFICERS

The Illinois College Choral club at a recent meeting selected its officers for the second semester. Theodore Smedley, last semester's vice president, was elected president. Neva Burnett will serve as vice president and the secretary-treasurer will be Margaret Elliott. Ralph Smith was selected to serve as librarian for the coming months.

Home Robbed Near Alexander Tuesday

Thief Obtains $33 While Ransacking Residence of Mrs. Ida Farmer

Sometime between 9 o'clock and noon Tuesday a thief ransacked the home of Mrs. Ida Farmer, north of Alexander, and obtained $33 in bills. Members of the family were away from home. The money was hidden under a blanket on the davenport, but was found by the thief.

The intruder searched drawers in the buffet and library table and carried the drawer from the library table to the dining room table that he might make a more thorough job of it.

Members of the family were in Jacksonville Tuesday morning. George Farmer, who operates the farm for his mother, left a note fastened to the screen door stating he was away from home and giving directions as to the delivery of some tankage he was expecting to arrive.

Sheriff Kenneth Woods was called on the case soon after the family arrived home and discovered the robbery.

Very. The thief left things in considerable disorder. Nothing was missing from the drawers he searched, but the money hidden under the blanket on the davenport was gone. It consisted of three $5 bills, one $10 bill and 18 $1 bills.

TOO MANY SKINNY COWS SOAKING UP DAIRYMEN'S PROFIT

Urbana, Ill.—About three-fourths of the dairy cows in the United States are too thin to produce milk and buttermilk at the most economical and profitable rates under present feed prices, according to observations made by Prof. W. J. Fraser, professor of dairy farming at the Chicago College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. In some sections as high as 80 per cent of the cows are too thin, he said.

With feed as scarce as it is now, dairymen should do just the opposite of what many of them have been doing during the hard times, he recommended. Instead of milking more cows in an effort to bolster a scant income, dairymen should get rid of all but their better cows, he said.

"If the cows that are naturally poor producers were sent to the butcher and the feed thus saved were given to the underfed good cows, they would produce so much better that the hard profits frequently would be tripled. Yet many farmers continue to feed their good and their poor cows alike even with feed as scarce and as high-priced as it is now."

The fact is that the fewer the number of cows required to produce a given amount of milk, the lower the cost of maintenance for the whole herd and the more profit for the dairymen.

"One of the large costs of keeping dairy cows is for the maintenance, which all goes simply to keep cows alive. It takes just as much feed to

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us sleepy, grouchy and no good for anything. What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless it gets it is flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and a lot of our food decays in our 25 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomcat, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause of the trouble. "ALL THE FUN WAS GONE OUT OF LIFE"

says middle aged woman

Many women suffer from hot flashes, dizzy spells, nervousness and other annoying symptoms of the Change of Life. They get so blue and discouraged that life does not seem worth living.

"All the fun was gone out of life," complains Mrs. S. Manushak of 1907 E. Brooks Ave., Chicago. For five years I was going through a very bad time. I was nervous, had terrible headaches, could not climb stairs and felt swollen. Your Vegetable Compound worked wonders for me. It is a great medicine for any time of life, but especially at the Change and before menopause. My daughter Lucille used to faint at the office. Your medicine helped her and helped my daughter-in-law too."

"I Had Awful Hot Spells!" says Mrs. Harry H. Price of 304 N. Harrison Ave., Kankakee, Illinois. "The Vegetable Compound puts pep into me and makes my work easy."

What they need is a dependable medicine like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

maintain a cow that produces only 2,000 pounds of milk in a year as it does to maintain a cow of the same weight that produces 8,000 pounds.

"Whatever ration is fed, the maintenance of the cow must first be taken care of before any milk can be produced. Furthermore under average farm conditions a cow must produce at the annual rate of 4,000 pounds of milk containing 4 per cent fat, or 160 pounds of fat, to pay for all overhead expenses before there is any milk or fat left for profit. This means that only the better producers that are properly fed can pay a good return to the herd owner."

Warriors of proved mettle, troops of Emperor Haile Selassie I of Abyssinia, of the type shown here, marching toward Addis Ababa, their capital, stand ready to defend their ancient homeland against invasion by the Italian army mobilized by Premier Mussolini, who demands satisfaction for border clashes in which both Italians and Abyssinians lost heavily. "THE LADY DANCES" by MARGE STANLEY

CHAPTER XXXII

She rose restlessly and approached the window. There, pacing up and down the beach, was Mark. The prau was drawn up on the sand, its oarsmen lounging beside it, and in the bay lay the Ker-madec, with seamen at work on its deck. Back and forth strode Mark, his eyes bent on the sand.

He looked up, gazed directly at the window where she was standing. She saw him pause, draw his watch from his pocket, and regard it meaningfully. "Cruel creature, warning! On an impulse she loosed the bow that bound her robes, spread it wide with both arms. Like a flame in the window, the scarlet blouse of her dancing costume flashed in the sun. Mark saw it; he turned his back and stared out over the blue waves of the Pacific.

The room seemed suddenly stifling to Vanya. She kicked off the tap leather moccasins, and slipped on the crimson slippers that were a part of her costume. She moved into the hall, not knowing where she was going—anywhere, so that the horror of that drab, desolate room should cease to weigh upon her.

Mark, pacing beside the prau, was in something of a frenzy. He couldn't believe Vanya would persist to the end in her refusal; that was incredible. Yet what was he to do? Carry through and leave, hoping she'd get in touch with him? He knew she wouldn't. Pretend to leave, and stay in Taulanga? He'd be back at the Cove in two days.

"I'll bluff it through to the last minute," he decided grimly. "She'll weaken! When the half hour's up, I'll have the blacks paddle to the point, out of sight of the hotel. We'll see how she likes it!"

He paced hotly back and forth. If only Vanya would yield the thing would be simple, no problem at all. And even yet he believed she would; surely her obstinacy couldn't persist to her own destruction.

He fell to sulking, hardly daring to tell to himself what he was doing. A moment later when he glimpsed her in the window, that deliberate gesture with which she revealed her objectionable dancing costume seemed very much like a symbol of farewell.

CHAPTER XXXIII

"That may be, even that's possible. Did you really tell me that?" "Perhaps not in so many words. Her implication was clear enough." "Ah!" said the beachcomber. "Anything less than a literal statement might give your stupidity a chance to operate. Just what did she say?"

"I came about this way, if you're so bound to have it: I accused her of adopting this attitude of refusal for trading purposes—to drive a better bargain, and I told her I couldn't give her what she wanted, meaning marriage. And she agreed with me. That's plain enough, isn't it?"

"But did you mention marriage specifically?" "No, I didn't. What else could the remark mean? Can you figure out another meaning?"

"Yes," said Loring. "I can. And so can you, weren't you blinded by your prejudices?" "I'd like to hear it!"

"I can think of several. Your statement and her reply might refer to respect, or kindness, or honor, or protection—or love out of her hair."

"Or love?" repeated Mark blankly. "That's the term I used. Love, affection, amour, or whatever you choose to call it."

"But why?" "Did you?" interrupted the derelict, "ever happen to tell the lady that you loved her? Did it occur to you that it might—just conceivably—make a difference to her?"

"No, I don't think so," said Mark dazedly. "But good heavens, Loring!"

"I know! You mean she should have realized it. But sometimes, paradoxical, I can faintly imagine her doubting it."

"Loring," said Mark admiringly, yet half-exasperated, "you're a perfect genius at solving difficulties and building out of a little dream! I've told you that before."

"Thanks," said the beachcomber dryly. "I have the advantage of knowing Vanya's character, and my theory fits it; yours doesn't."

"And still—" began Mark. "I can guess the rest. And still it doesn't alter the situation. That's the observation, you were about to make, I take it."

"I was! Have you any answer to it?" "Haven't I always an answer? Let me recall a little remark of your own. You reminded me not long ago, re the lady, that there were such words in the language as 'agency, honor, and self-respect. Remember?"

"I do indeed." "Then let me remind you that there are also certain less pleasant words."

"Do you mean," asked Mark in a low voice, "that you think I'd have—I might have been guilty of seduction? Her first love?"

"Think I know!" "And how do you know?" "Common sense, Comrade. Don't you think going without a little liaison on the prau is a bit greater?"

"I—guess so." "Then it's obvious that if Vanya played straight her mind must have been as well as I'll swear to her exemplary conduct at the Cove!"

"Lord!" said Mark softly. "Lord, I want to believe you, Loring!"

Thief Takes Purse Thru Window; Enter M. L. Pontius Home

Burglar During Visit by Meet Last Night

During the meeting of the Clatter club, held Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. James L. Wood, 511 West Beecher avenue, an uninvited guest opened a bedroom window and extracted a purse which was placed on the vanity within easy reach.

The falling of a metal powder box which was pulled off the vanity when the thief got the purse, attracted the attention of those in the house, and the intruder was frightened away before he could take anything more.

In front of the window was a cedar chest on which coats and purses of the guests had been deposited. The thief had propped the window open with a stick and was evidently prepared to make a rich haul.

The purse contained only a few pennies and some car keys. The cover from the vanity also disappeared, and it is supposed the thief got that also. No one in the house saw the prowler.

However, Mrs. Walton Bland, who lives directly back of the Wood home on Grove street, reported that she saw a rather tall man cut across her back yard. He was carrying an overcoat on his arm. She did not obtain a clear view of the man as it was quite dark.

Damage to Wrecked Filling Station is Estimated at $6,500

Damage to the D-X gasoline filling station and restaurant building at South Main street and College avenue, wrecked here yesterday morning by an explosion, is estimated at $6,500, it was announced yesterday afternoon following a survey. This estimate does not include damage to restaurant fixtures and other equipment in the building, which means a further loss. The condition of Mrs. Oliver Gadberry, 506 South East street, and son, Oliver Gadberry, who were taken to hospitals as the result of injuries received in the blast were reported last night to be good.

MEREDOSIA LEGION POST HOLDS MEET

Social is Enjoyed at Meeting Of Vets, Families; News Notes

Meredosia, Feb. 13.—Members of the American Legion Post 516 and their families enjoyed a social on Tuesday evening at the Legion cabin. The program was opened by a trio of girls singing two selections, "Blue Moon" and "Over There," after which followed the motion pictures of the war days over there and was quite an interesting picture, reminding the "Boys" of many of the hardships and dangers they experienced while they were over there.

After the show a social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served. Out of town Legion members and their wives who were guests for the evening were: Mrs. A. and Mrs. Kenneth Woods and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sheppard of Jacksonville and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Brockhouse of Kincaid.

Ed Schaefer and Clyde McAllister were in charge of the funeral of Mrs. Hannah Finney at Bluffs Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Brockhouse of Kincaid were visitors Tuesday afternoon at the home of the former mother, Mrs. Mary Brockhouse, and other relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hendrick and son Gene were visitors with relatives at Milton Sunday afternoon.

COOPER KIN NAMED IN WILL

James B. Cooper Leaves Church $25; Remainder Of Estate to Relatives

The will of the late James B. Cooper, former Concord resident, who died in California, was made a matter of record in the office of County Clerk F. W. Brockhouse yesterday. A bequest of $25 is left to the Concord M. E. church and the remainder of the property is to go to relatives.

The widow, Mrs. Eva Cooper, is to receive all personal property except the decedent's automobile, and the sum of $500. The automobile and $1,000 is bequeathed to a son, Clyde, $1,000 is left to a son, Farrell, and $500 is bequeathed each to a son, Jay, daughter, Bernice Petefish, and a grandson, Edgar Cooper.

The remainder of the property is to be divided among the widow, four children and grandson, Edgar Cooper, share and share alike. Clyde Cooper is named executor of the will, which bears date of December 6, 1934, and was witnessed by James S. Alkire, Gus Kilver and William E. Thomson.

In the Race

RANDOLPH LITTLE
Randolph Little, Republican candidate for Alderman of the Third Ward, has been a resident of Jacksonville for several years. For ten years Mr. Little was employed as salesman by the Jacksonville Farm Supply Company. For the past few years he has been engaged in the insurance business.

He resides at 228 E. College avenue, is married and has two children. Mr. Little is a practical business man and if nominated and elected to the city council promises to give Jacksonville a good business administration.

Where Explosion Damaged South Main Service Station

Pictured above is the scene of havoc that greeted the Journal-Courier photographer ten minutes after a terrific blast shook the business district. Escaped gas was blamed for the blast which wrecked the Diamond D-X station at the corner of South Main and College avenue, tearing up three large sections of concrete, wrecking the interior of the recently constructed building, and sending two people to the hospital.

SHOW MURALS AT GALLERY HERE

Exhibitions Of Reproductions Of Diego Rivera's On Display

A most interesting exhibition of reproductions of Diego Rivera's murals are shown in the East Room, at the Strawn Gallery. These are reproductions of the murals on the walls of the Ministry of Education, Mexico City; the Agricultural School, Chapingo; Palace of Cortez, Cuernavaca, and the National Palace, Mexico City. There are nineteen of these colored reproductions and show the unique talent of this Mexican painter, who has done some distinguished work as well as much discussed work in the United States.

It may be of interest to those knowing little of the technique of true fresco painting to give a little space to the methods used. The technique consists of the application of earth colors on the surface of wet plaster. This plastered surface is prepared from sand and lime and is applied from time to time for at least three months and free from sulphur, the latter affecting and destroying color.

In Rivera's frescoes three plaster coats are used: first a coat of rough plaster; second one of "brown" and third, a thin, finishing coat. To this last coat, while wet, the colors are painted. Since this painting is done on wet plaster, only that section of the "brown coat" which can be completed in one day, is covered with the thin finishing coat. The study of the fresco which has been enlarged to scale has been transferred to this "brown coat" by sifting colored chalk through perforations on the design paper. It is a difficult process to make these units painted at different days, join without disturbing the lines of the design.

The palette of the fresco painter is limited. It consists of earth colors, oxides of iron and manganese. The color, ground on marble slab with a small amount of water, forms a paste and is applied much as water colors with a brush moistened in water.

FILE TAX LIEN AGAINST SCOTT MAN

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 13.—(P)—Ten tax liens naming 16 persons were filed in Federal court today by V. Y. Dallman, collector of internal revenue. Government officials said the action was one step in a drive against the illegal production and sale of alcoholic beverages.

Anols and Barney Brayfield of Mt. Pulaski headed the list of defendants, a lien charging that they own a distillery without paying tax. One lien charged that August Beloit of Taylorville owes $4,840.54 for tax on spirits produced. Allen W. Tanterley of Winchester was named as owing the government $1,040.64 for tax on liquor.

POTTER FOUND NOT GUILTY

Judge Directs Verdict Without Defense Testimony Being Presented

Howard Potter, an official of an engineering company of this city, Wednesday was cleared by a circuit court jury at Springfield of forgery charges. Potter was acquitted on a directed verdict, without the defense presenting any evidence.

Potter was accused of forging the name of Mayor Fred Herlan of Diverson to an application for a PWA waterworks loan. He contended that the signature was signed on request of members of the village board.

After the prosecution presented its evidence in the Sangamon county circuit court, Potter's attorney, A. M. Fitzgerald, entered a motion for a directed verdict. Judge Victor Hemphill allowed the motion and instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty.

It was indicated that other pending cases involving the signatures of other members of the village board will be dropped.

Hardin had maintained that Lincoln first made the acquaintance of his future wife in a residence which stood on the present site of Passavant hospital. This was the home of John J. Hardin, father of General Hardin.

John J. Hardin was a lawyer, legislator, congressman, major-general in the state militia, colonel in the First Illinois Volunteers, and was killed in the battle of Buena Vista in 1847.

EXPLOSION AT STATION HAD THUNDER SOUND

Noise Of Blast at Filling Station Lacked Much Volume

While the wreckage which marks the Diamond D-X filling station at South Main street and College avenue, which was demolished by an explosion yesterday, would indicate a terrific noise when the blast occurred, persons involved in the accident and those nearby said there was not a loud detonation. Persons nearby described the sound made by the explosion as a thunderclap sound.

C. B. Cannon, Sr., who was in the basement of the building, said he heard no sound at all, although he was practically in the center of the blast. Mr. Cannon said there was a sort of puff and fire flashed by his body and walls and debris started falling. The flames from the explosion singed the hair on his head and his eyebrows, but otherwise he was unharmed.

Persons in the Cornbelt Chevrolet company building which adjoins the filling station and restaurant on the south, felt the building shake and heard the rumble of the explosion, the volume of the tremors and quality of the sound being sufficient to send those in the building rushing to the street. They found the station next door a wreck.

Chairs and other equipment in the station were tossed thru the broken windows and doors, two of the chairs being masses of huge splinters. It was upon these chairs that persons inside the damaged building sat. Spectators marvel that so much damage resulted to the chairs without those seated in them being more badly hurt.

The window panes in the Hall Bros. building across the street indicated that not only did debris fly through them but some were cracked by concussion.

The huge broken sections of concrete sidewalk which had been constructed to bear the weight of heavy trucks approaching the station had the appearance of having been pushed out toward the street. The bricks on the newly laid pavement on South Main street had this same appearance. The strangest thing about the explosion is that none of the persons in the building was injured or that passersby had been hurt by the upheaval and movement of the sidewalk.

One of the freaks resulting from the explosion was the smashing of a window almost a block from the scene. While the plate glass windows within fifteen feet of the blast were undamaged a window under the porch of the apartment occupied by Mrs. Anna Franks, 121 West College ave., was shattered. This window was the only one in the house that was damaged. The windows on the east side of the apartment were unharmed.

PHIL KENNAMER IS PAINTED AS LOVE SICK BOY

Portrayed As "One Black Sheep" In Family

By William Voigt, Jr., Associated Press Staff Writer, Pawnee, Okla., Feb. 14.—(P)—Phil Kennamer was painted tonight as a love-sick youth—brilliant but erratic protector of a pretty girl led him to—whose obsession that he was the slay a friend he thought was menacing her.

Young Kennamer, on trial for his life, was portrayed by his attorney A. Flint Moss as the one "black sheep" in the family of Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer of Tulsa.

The 19-year-old youth's obsession, Moss told the jury in this little Indian town's new stone courthouse late today, led him into a frenzy in which he could not distinguish right from wrong—and he killed John F. Correll, Jr., of another socially prominent Tulsa family Thanksgiving night.

"When you have heard our proof," Moss testified, "when you have heard experts predict, and have been told all of the strange happenings of the past in young Phil's life, there will not remain a shadow of doubt that he was not able to distinguish right from wrong."

The defense plea is not guilty by reason of temporary insanity and self-defense. Kennamer asserts he shot Correll to death in a struggle over Correll's pistol.

Correll attempted to kill him, the youth claims, after he had frustrated an extortion plot against the family of Homer F. Wilcox and his attractive 19-year-old daughter, Virginia.

Moss, who spoke after the state rested in mid-afternoon, dwelt at length upon the Wilcox episode, saying the testimony will show that Kennamer bore for the girl an undying adoration—sophomoric, juvenile, but intense.

"When this erratic, this brilliant boy came up on a condition that affected Miss Wilcox, his adored one, it went to work upon his mentality," he said.

Authorities Are Awaiting Favorable Opportunity To Trap Him

New York, Feb. 14.—(P)—The Daily News says in a copyright story that "Bruno Richard Hauptmann's supposed accomplice in the kidnapping and murder of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., is known and authorities are awaiting a favorable opportunity to trap him."

"The fact that Hauptmann had an accomplice has long been known to the department of justice, the New York police and District Attorney Foley of the Bronx," the News says.

"This man's part in the crime was not mentioned in the Hauptmann trial because of the anxiety of the prosecution that nothing should be allowed to belittle the issue of the ex-German machine gunner's guilt."

RUM RUNNING VESSEL SEIZED BY U. S. AGENTS

Three Customs Men Escape Being Shangaied

Boston, Mass., Feb. 14.—(P)—A rum-running vessel masquerading as a simple fisherman was seized tonight by the collector of customs, Joseph A. Maynard, who said three of his agents had escaped being shangaied aboard the ship and put to death at sea by armed smugglers only by an exchange of hostages.

When the ship, the Clarence B. Mitchell, 38-year-old flounder dragger, was seized at the wharf, Maynard said, she still reeked of the alcohol whose unloading three customs men had come upon 24 hours before in the early morning at the Boston fish pier.

"Our customs agents were visiting all wharves, checking up on landings of all liquors," the collector related, "when they found themselves in a crowd of 30 to 40 men, taking alcohol off the boat and placing it on trucks."

"They put guns to our men," Maynard continued. "It's the first time they've done that in a long, long while. One of our other inspectors, however, had remained at the head of the dock and had collared one of these fellows."

The rest of them threatened that if their men wasn't let go, they'd carry our inspectors to sea and kill them. So the exchange was made. Our men showed good judgment—he was up against a crowd."

"They backed our men right off the wharf with the guns in their backs," Maynard went on, "and beat it out to sea with the boat."

"But we know who they are," the collector declared, announcing the federal grand jury would hear the evidence in possession of the customs men tomorrow.

"We're going to serve notice on rum runners that we're going to put the whole power of the customs service to work to apprehend them."

No one was found aboard the boat seized today. The Mitchell is registered as being owned by Vito Demetrio of the north end section of Boston.

EXPECT ARRESTS IN BOMBINGS OF FREIGHT TRAINS

Investigation Opens In Southern Illinois

Matthew Gleason of Aurora Accused of Harboring Volney Davis

Chicago, Feb. 14.—(P)—The secret arrest of Matthew Gleason, Aurora, Ill., tavern keeper was disclosed today when federal agents who seized him last Thursday brought him before U. S. Commissioner Walker on a charge of harboring Volney Davis, Bremer kidnapping suspect.

Davis escaped early on the night of Feb. 5 from agents of the department of justice who were returning him by plane from Kansas City. The prisoner slugged one of his captors when the federal agent unfettered Davis so the two could drink a stein of beer and then dived through a window.

His escape was made at Yorkville, Ill., 50 miles west of Chicago. Gleason's case was set for Feb. 21 and bond placed at $3,000, which he was unable to raise tonight.

"I knew Davis and he came to my house in Aurora," said Gleason. "He said the law was after him, but I didn't know he was wanted by the federal agents or that he was wanted in a kidnapping case."

Gleason claimed the federal agents beat him while he was his prisoner and his attorney added he might seek assault warrants against them.

DEPUTIES GUARD DECATUR PLANTS

Decatur, Ill., Feb. 14.—(P)—A ring of deputy sheriffs and police guarded four garment factories here tonight after a minor clash between strike pickets and employees in which two persons were overcome by tear gas fumes.

Art Williams was taken to a hospital for treatment and Martina Schmitz was treated for burns after gas bombs were exploded as police were escorting a woman employee through the picket lines. Police said the bombs were thrown by mistake.

Picketing followed the walkout of a part of the 500 women employed in the four plants, after demands for a closed shop and recognition of the newly-formed union were refused by employers.

Operations were continued at the four plants and employers said they would not close down.

GERMANY WILL PRODUCE LOW PRICED AUTO

Will Compete With Other Nations In World Markets

Berlin, Feb. 14.—(P)—Adolf Hitler's Reich today announced development of a low-priced automobile fuel consumption which will "naturally become the object of the first magnitude for exportation."

German automobile manufacturers have started a sizeable export fund to enable Germany to compete with the industry of other nations in the world's markets.

Hitler declared at the international auto show:

"We are going to solve the problem of the cheap car because we must. Already one of our leading constructors has devised a car which will cost no more than a middle priced motorcycle, while the consumption of fuel will be the least imaginable."

Robert Allmers, president of the automobile industrialists' league, told auto visitors:

"We know we lead the world in regard to the construction and quality of our automobiles. x x x This peoples' car will naturally become the object of the first magnitude for exportation."

Each Hitler and Allmers said Germany rapidly is making herself independent of the world in regard to rubber and oil.

Automobiles using wood gas or ordinary city gas for fuel already are appearing in Berlin streets. The drivers claim complete success and have praised their economy. The wood gas cars look like regular gasoline motor cars except that they have large, but not unusually conspicuous wood containers in the rear. They resemble large carrier trucks extending downward from the rear window.

BORAH COMMENTS ON LINDY CASE

Washington, Feb. 14.—(P)—Senator Borah of Idaho believes somebody guilty of the Lindbergh baby kidnapping is still at large.

In a brief sentence or two, he indicated his belief today that the mystery was only "partly cleared up" by the conviction of Bruno Richard Hauptmann. Then, despite a barrage of questions, he declined to go further into details.

"I have always believed that this crime was consummated through someone in the house co-operating with someone outside the house," he said.

Since reading much of the testimony at the trial I am more thoroughly convinced of that fact. So the mystery is only partly cleared up in my mind.

"I have strong convictions about the matter, but I would not care to make them public. I spoke merely as a citizen."

JOHN S. SCHNEPP BELIEVED UNDER ARREST IN WEST

Former Mayor Being Held On Charge Of Embezzlement

Los Angeles, Feb. 14.—(P)—Identified by four persons as John S. Schnepf, former mayor of Springfield, Ill., a 70-year-old "newsboy" arrested today waived extradition and awaited in a jail cell for arrival of Springfield authorities to return him to that city where Schnepf is charged with a $400,000 embezzlement.

Capt. J. W. Trainor of the police fugitive detail said the aged man who claims to have lost his memory, was "positively identified" by F. M. Legg, Thomas Suddeth, Mrs. George Solomon and H. A. Ragland, all former Springfield residents.

The officer said the man who had adopted the name "John Mason," had formally waived extradition and that he had been advised by Illinois authorities necessary papers for the man's removal there had been obtained.

Trainor said the man told him that beyond two years ago "everything is a blank." Schnepf disappeared from Springfield 21 years ago after serving three terms as mayor. The alleged embezzlement, Trainor said, involves $400,000 of funds of a German society of a lapse in memory. Trainor said the aged newsboy insisted he did not know his name and claimed he recognized none of the quartet which identified him.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 14.—(P)—John S. Schnepf, 68, reported to have been identified in Los Angeles today, disappeared from his home here in January, 1912.

A former mayor of Springfield and a real estate dealer, he vanished after shortages had been found in three estates for which he was conservator. State's Attorney Alfred H. Greening said that Schnepf has never been indicted but that he is wanted here in answer to embezzlement and forgery charges.

Administration Work Relief Bill Greeted in Senate With Outburst of "Harsh Words"

CAPTAIN WILEY TELLS STORY OF MACON DISASTER

Commander Declares Fabric Loosened During Rain

Associated Press Staff Writer, Washington, Feb. 14.—(P)—Greeted in the senate by harsh words from both the Democratic and Republican sides of the aisle, the president's $4,880,000 work-relief bill tonight faced a prolonged diet of bitter verbiage.

In an assault directed particularly at the wide powers granted the president under the measure, Senator Steiwer (R., Ore.) shouted that there were "no restrictions" on the executive, and Senator Long (D., La.) added:

"This isn't a relief bill, this is a boodle bill."

Quietly, during the late afternoon, a movement was started among both Republican and Democratic senators to recommit the bill to the senate appropriations committee from which it just emerged after a three week's butting, with instructions that only the $600,000 for relief should be reported for immediate consideration.

The move appeared likely to break into the open tomorrow. Senator McCarran (D., Nev.) whose efforts to operate on the bill thus far have met little success, said he would move to recommit it if no one else did.

President Roosevelt went calmly ahead meanwhile on the apparent assumption that the bill would emerge largely intact. He named Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck and Company, to head a committee of business men to advise him on how best to spend the $4,000,000 work fund.

Wood visited the white house accompanied by Secretary Roper and H. P. Kendall, chairman of the commerce department's business advisory and planning council. Roper explained the Wood committee would act only in an advisory capacity to the president and whatever administrative organization he establishes to allocate the fund.

Work Relief

Ten thousand work relief projects in the United States have already been completed, a splendid monument to the efforts of the government and of local communities to avoid direct dole and keep up the self-respect of the unemployed by providing work for them. In a recent bulletin issued by the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission appear photographs of numerous projects in the state, and paragraphs telling of their advantages to the communities where they have been carried out.

On the front cover there is a picture of the grandstand erected at the Morgan County fair grounds. Had it not been for labor furnished by the relief organization, the county would not today have this fine steel, concrete and wood structure, seating 2,000 persons. The project furnished work for several weeks for thirty or forty men.

The city also has the South Main street pavement, new concrete paving in several alleys some new sewers, etc., while the county has several needed improvements on its highways. All this work has been done by relief labor, and at present more than 800 people are employed on projects throughout the county.

What is true of Jacksonville has been repeated in scores of communities throughout the state. New streets, better sewer systems, repair and repainting of schools, new library facilities, airplane hangars, and dozens of other improvements have been added to Illinois communities by the use of relief labor.

Meanwhile thousands of people have been kept at work and off the dole. They have avoided accepting charity, but have been enabled to earn honestly the money they needed to maintain themselves and their families. How anyone could think of substituting dole for work relief is impossible to imagine.

Erosion Control

What has been done by CCC workers to raise the value of farm land thru erosion projects may be realized from the experience in a single state. Missouri authorities believe that $60,000 has been added to value of farm land treated in that state. Some 10,000 acres have been redeemed, with an average increase in value of $5 per acre.

Erosion control would be undertaken in Morgan county if a camp of CCC workers were to be established here. Terracing of sloping land and reduction of gullies thru use of brush dams of the land can be prevented, it is also possible to start building up of the same land by alluvial deposits washed over it. Gullies would thus be filled up in time and danger of erosion eliminated.

The economic waste has already been so great from erosion that thousands of acres have been turned into desert. Land that is stripped of its fertile top soil is worthless and must be abandoned. Erosion projects started before the land is all gone give it a new lease on life.

The Verdict Returned

At a late hour Wednesday night eight men and four women who have sat in the Fleming, N. J., courtroom since Jan. 2, returned to their homes after delivering a verdict which will send Bruno Richard Hauptmann to the electric chair for the kidnapping and murder of Baby Lindbergh on March 1, 1932.

After listening to scores of witnesses place thousands of pages of evidence in the court record and examining some 400 exhibits which they took with them to the jury room these twelve citizens did their duty to the state, to society, and to the stricken Lindbergh family.

There is a feeling of relief that the long trial is ended. But there is also a feeling of satisfaction throughout the nation. Justice has been done; American court procedure has been vindicated; the excellent police work which led to the apprehension of Hauptmann and the weaving about him of a net of convincing evidence, has been given its proper recognition. Hauptmann's guilt was evident from testimony supplied by state witnesses. The jury showed its ability to overlook oratory, technical points and alibis and to base its verdict on the facts given by witnesses.

At last the worst crime of the century has been properly exposed and set for punishment. The country has been given a demonstration of the power of the law to hunt down and convict criminals under the most difficult circumstances, and the underworld now knows that the sins of its denizens will find them out.

The verdict of the jury satisfies justice and assures honest citizens that the law is still on their side.

From Bandits to Game

Officers of the law have often hunted in the Cookson Hills in Oklahoma. Now if Uncle Sam's plans go thru, the type of game which may be found in this region will be altered. Up to the present the hills have furnished a haven for bandits. They are soon to be turned into a game refuge. The government will move the 400 families living in the hills to better land elsewhere in the state.

The Cookson Hills have been a bandit hideaway since the civil war days. Gentlemen of high renown, among criminals have sojourned there. Al Jennings, Jesse James, Walter Underhill and Pretty Boy Floyd sought refuge in the hills at different periods. The straight-shooting, hard-riding Belle Starr, woman outlaw of the seventies, was also on familiar ground in this region.

But for the Cookson Hills such characters and such days are gone forever. There will be no obscure farms where bandits may hide, but there will be plenty of silence and solitude for wild game rather than wild men.

By taking over this region the government will gain a conservation center, enable hundreds of families to find better homes, and rid an otherwise beautiful section of country of a bad name. In future years men, women and children seeking health and recreation will go into these hills, and their lives will be safe.

PRICE FIXING SHOULD GO.

From The Kansas City Times
In the first of a series of Washington hearings on the pending revision of the NIRA, a pronounced majority of the business executives who spoke were strongly in favor of a retention of price fixing or control in the codes. That is not surprising as it has been the indicated attitude previously. But it is an extremely important issue for the consuming public, and doubtless will prove important to industry in a way that seemingly is not suspected now.

For price fixing, or control that amounts to it, is in the great majority of instances a dangerously detrimental procedure hurtful to the consumer, restrictive of public demand for commodities, a brake on production and therefore eventually injurious to business as a whole. The only possible exceptions are those industries which, by the nature of their services are public utilities in fact if not in name and on that account, subject to public regulation in the public interest.

The President himself, in his radio address of September 30, raised the serious question as to whether the codes had not "gone too far in such matters as price fixing and limitation of production," and the further "serious question as to the wisdom of many of these devices to control production or to prevent destructive price cutting which many business organizations have insisted were necessary, or whether their effect may have been to prevent that volume of production which would make possible lower prices and increase employment."

Undoubtedly revision of the recovery act along the lines here suggested would stimulate consumer demand and take a brake off recovery.

That Take Profit Out of War Commission Silently Fades Out . . . Baruch Won't Be Handled With Gloves . . . Nye Group Out for Scalps . . . Miss Perkins is a Wary Soul.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal and Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington.—There's some talk of sending a search party after the president's take-profit-out-of-war commission appointed several weeks ago with great ballyhoo. But the search probably would be hopeless.

The epitaph was spoken one recent evening when Bernard M. Baruch, the financier, telephoned Senator Vandenberg of the New Munitions committee and is said to have confessed: "Well, that's about the last you're going to hear from the president's commission, I guess."

Baruch and Gen. Hugh Johnson, the committee's key men, had just endorsed the McGraw-Hill war mobilization bill before the House military affairs committee. The commission itself included many high government officials, especially those of the War and Navy departments.

It was widely considered a means of stopping further Nye committee revelations. It was charged with making a survey and recommendation as to war profits. But the Nye committee rebelled and the commission hasn't been heard of since its appointment.

Snare and a Delusion
Its ghost, however, seems to hover approvingly over the McGraw-Hill bill, which seems to be one of those administration measures often introduced to head off threatened legislation of more drastic nature.

The bill would permit the president to peg prices in wartime or on congressional declaration of a war emergency and to commandeer and control material resources and industry.

The Nye committee scoffs at the measure as a "blank check" which guarantees high war profits and seems to represent only some ideas Baruch and Johnson had after the last war.

Prices usually skyrocket in advance of war, it is pointed out, and the McGraw-Hill bill doesn't even pretend to curb peacetime profiteering by shipbuilders and munitions makers in collusion with navy and war departments.

The committee feels it has shown the army's HQ to be at the DuPont offices in Delaware and the navy's to be wherever officers of the "big three" shipbuilders go into a huddle.

Won't Pull Punches
Friends of Baruch have secretly approached the Nye committee to urge that he be treated as a "friendly witness," anxious to help in their good work.

But the committee isn't prepared to handle anyone with gloves. It has referred one set of facts to the federal district attorney, with the idea that they warrant perjury charges against a shipbuilders' lobbyist, and it probably will proceed against at least three other prominent witnesses in the shipbuilding inquiry who are suspected of not telling the truth.

You may or may not have noticed that C. L. Bardo, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, refused to waive immunity when called to testify.

Bardo was one of those who employed William B. Shearer, who has been credited with wrecking the 1927 naval arms conference—after which shipbuilders' profits soared.

Miss Perkins is Wary
The probable reason Jim Farley didn't send any of those valuable imperforate stamps to Secretary Frances Perkins was that Miss Perkins greets gift horses with an inspection of their pedigrees and tonnage.
No one else in the government has

Volley Ball League Makes Rule Changes

Managers Reach Agreement on Substitute Players; 3 Contests Friday

A meeting of the managers of the YMCA Volley Ball League teams was held in the Washington school Wednesday evening to consider the matter of using substitutes in games. The old ruling permitting a team which is short one or two players to select one or two substitutes from other teams has been amended to read as follows:

"When a team desires to use outside substitutes, its captain shall ask the captain of the opposing team to name whom they may use" (supposedly of approximately the strength of the missing players). They may then either use such substitute players, or may play with only the four or five regular players whom they have available.

The change in ruling was made necessary because some of the teams have abused the former ruling and captains, who had the right to object to the use of certain subs, disliked doing so even though it gave the opponents an unfair advantage. Another matter considered was with regard to strengthening weak teams, which are in need of players. Any persons who are not playing but would like to play, or players who know of persons who would like to play, are asked to report to Secretary Hermann of the YMCA, phone 179, and the names will be made available to teams needing them.

The games to be played Friday night at the Washington school gymnasium are: At 7 o'clock, Green M. E. and State Street Presbyterian; at 8:00, Church of God vs. Shoe Factory; and at 8:55, Amalgamated Clothiers vs. Power & Light Co.

WATCH KIDNEYS SAME AS BOWELS

Wash Out Your 75,200 Feet of Kidney Tubes—Your kidneys contain only 27 feet of tubes, yet the kidneys contain nearly 10 million tiny tubes or filters which would measure 75,200 feet if laid end to end. Therefore, it is just as important to watch the kidneys as the bowels. Kidneys are working all the time and are Nature's chief way of taking the acids and poisonous waste out of the blood.

Healthy persons pass 3 pints a day thru the bladder which contains nearly 4 pounds of waste matter. You pass less than this amount, your 75,200 feet of kidney tubes may be clogged with poisonous waste. This is the danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

Kidneys should be watched closely and need cleaning out with "DOAN'S PILLS," an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out your 75,200 feet of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs and so-called "kiddie cures" which claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatment of many serious kidney injuries and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS, the old reliable relief that contains no "drugs" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist.

Patient Lighted Rags and Tossed Them Under Bench

Employees Avert Fire Here Thursday at Hospital by Quick Action

Alertness of several Jacksonville State hospital employees averted damage by fire Thursday afternoon in the carpenter shop, located south of the administration building. A patient was seen to toss a lighted bunch of rags under a work bench, and then leave the room. Fire extinguishers were brought into use and the flaming rags drenched.

Dr. C. St. Clair Drake, managing officer of the hospital, said the patient apparently deliberately tried to set fire to the place. The rags had been soaked in coal oil.

The patient who is said to have started the blaze works in the carpenter shop.

While employees of the hospital went to work with extinguishers a call was sent to the city fire department. They strung a line of hose but it was not needed.

Hospital authorities said there is practically no damage. The fire was centered in the rags and did not catch the woodwork.

The fire alarm was turned in to the city department over Phone 1770.

FOUR ARE HURT IN CRASH SOUTH OF MURRAYVILLE

Four persons were hurt about 7 o'clock Wednesday night when the heavy fog caused a head-on collision of two cars on U. S.-67 between Murrayville and Manchester.

A car driven by John Strain, 1431 Mound avenue, and occupied also by Donald Pearce of Pine street and Mrs. James Orr, Sr., of Roodhouse, collided with a machine driven by a Mr. Good of Cincinnati, O.

Mr. Strain was taking Mrs. Orr back to Roodhouse after she had brought her daughter-in-law to the hospital in this city. He was thrown from the car by the force of the collision and received cuts and bruises and an injury to one arm. He also had the breath knocked out of him and suffered from shock.

Mrs. Orr suffered fractures of two ribs and a sprained ankle. She was removed to her home in Roodhouse. She also suffered from the shock of the collision. Donald Pearce received a cut on the head and minor bruises about the head and face. Pearce and Strain returned to their homes here Wednesday night. Mr. Good sustained a cut on the nose and upper lip. He came to Jacksonville Thursday morning to get a train to return to Cincinnati.

Both cars were badly damaged. They were towed to the Clarkson garage at Murrayville. Damage to each car was estimated at $350.

The accident occurred because of the fog. The lights of each car blinded the driver of the other as the machines approached and came together. When Strain and the others left this city the fog was not so bad; but as they traveled beyond Woodson on their way to Roodhouse, it became very thick and driving was dangerous.

Hall Tree Used by Lincoln Property Of Ernest A. Lane

Relic Stood in Home Where Abe Courted Mary Todd
in Springfield

A hall tree which stood in the home where Abraham Lincoln courted Mary Todd and on which he would hang his coat and hat; a mirror into which he must have looked many times to see if his hair was straight and his tie adjusted before meeting his best girl. The hall tree with its mirror is of solid mahogany and stands eight feet high. It is the property of Ernest Lane of St. Louis, brother of B. F. Lane of this city, and has been his for thirty years.

Mr. Lane attended the Lincoln celebration in Springfield Monday evening, and was seated back of a man whom he thought he recognized as Isaac R. Diller. Mr. Lane remarked to someone near him, "Can you tell me if Isaac Diller is still alive?"

The gentleman turned in his seat and replied, "He certainly is," and recognized Mr. Lane as the young man who had a room in his father's home back in 1865. Mr. Diller gave Mr. Lane a letter which established Mr. Lane as a real Lincoln relic.

Mr. Diller remembered the old piece of furniture very well. It stood in the old Ninian W. Edwards home on the site of the present Centennial building. It was there that Mary Todd lived and often received Lincoln. It was there also that she died on July 16, 1882. In 1905 Mr. Lane as a carpenter was working on the repair of the Edwards home, which then belonged to the late shop Seymour. He obtained the relic from Mrs. Seymour.

Mr. Diller is the son of Roland Diller, who was proprietor of the drug store in Springfield where Lincoln loafed. He gave Mr. Lane a copy of a picture taken in 1860, showing Lincoln in front of his home in Springfield. Tad and Willie Lincoln are also in the picture, also Mr. Diller as a lad of six years. He is said to be the only living man who had his picture taken with Lincoln, a statement for which H. W. Fay, custodian of the Lincoln tomb, is authority.

Mr. Diller was a playmate of the Lincoln children and has an invitation to a party given by Mrs. Lincoln for Willie in 1860.

The Ninian Edwards home stood on ground now occupied by the northwest corner of the Centennial building in Springfield. It was here that Lincoln and Mary Todd were married Nov. 4, 1842.

KEEP ON

TOP O' THE WORLD

When you're feeling well, you're usually happy. Life is at its best. But when you're sick and blue, days lose their zest. You lack enthusiasm.

Common constipation, due to insufficient "bulk" in meals, is an enemy of happy living. It frequently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Correct it by eating a delicious cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a natural food for normal persons. It furnishes generous "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also provides vitamin B and iron.

Isn't this gentle food safer than risking patent medicines? Unlike cathartics, it remains effective with continued use. Two table-spoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

He was treated by a local doctor who found that one side of the face and one eye was very painfully burned. The physician was unable to say Tuesday whether the burns were severe enough to affect the sight of the eye, but had hopes of saving it. It is thought that some water reached the molten metal causing the explosion.

C. FLETCHER TO PLAY AGAINST SOUTHERN FIVE

Injury in St. Louis Game Not Serious; Coddington is Ill

Cecil Fletcher, whose coming to the Illinois College basketball team has meant a lot to the fans in the way of points, will be available for the crucial game with Southern Teachers college on the Illinois School for the Deaf court, Saturday night. Coach LaRue Van Meter said yesterday afternoon after examining the injury the young sustained in the game against the St. Louis U. Billikins, but there is a strong possibility that Clyde Coddington, the other newcomer to the varsity squad, will not be available.

Coddington, who was good enough to make the freshman varsity at the University of Illinois before transferring to Illinois College, turned up for practice yesterday with a fever and the first indications of a cold. He was sent to the college physician for treatment, but the coach feared the cold already had made too much headway.

Fletcher's injury, which was feared might keep him out of the game, responded to treatment administered by a Williamsville physician immediately after the game, and additional treatment yesterday. Cecil injured his foot in the last three seconds of play when he leaped into the air to retrieve the ball of the St. Louis bankboard, and came down on someone's foot, twisting his own ankle. He was carried off the floor, obviously in considerable pain. Hot and cold applications were immediately used, forestalling any swelling and stiffness.

Coach Van Meter put his lads through a short-work, and then doped them up with halibut malt, a fluid which has supplanted cod liver oil in the diet of the athletes, a dose of gentle cathartic, and oranges. Van Meter is a great believer in oranges as one of the main items of the daily ration, serving them during games and practices, and particularly at hard drills.

The Blueboys are in a position to show a part of the conference championship if they are successful in finishing the season without any further set-backs. Carbondale Normal is the only team to stop Illinois this year, and therefore a hard battle is expected this Saturday night.

Western has four games ahead, meeting Bradley, Knox, DeKalb Normal and Shurtleff before the end of the season. Thus the two teams will play 13 games during the conference season.

Williamsville's crowd was a bit uncertain on what college basketball was all about, according to the remarks that filtered down out of the grandstand.

From one side of the gymnasium came the shout "Let's go back to men's rules" when the officials called several traveling penalties, and just back of boys in the press box came the remark of a woman, "Seems to me both teams are awful rough."

Illinois College is in a position to get a slice of the Little 19 championship this year as the result of Western Teachers' College victory over Augustana last Tuesday night.

The Leathernecks, who saw fit to wipe a couple of scheduled games with Illinois College off the schedule, also are in position to get a chunk of the title.

The standing of the leaders at present is:

North Central	5	0	1,000
Western Teachers	8	1	888
State Normal	8	1	888
Augustana	7	1	875
Illinois College	7	1	875

Thus, with four teams boasting of only one loss this season, it would seem that there will be several teams at the top when the season closes.

The Blueboys after licking St. Louis University Wednesday night on the Williamsville court, will meet Southern Illinois Teachers on the I. S. D. floor Saturday night. The game probably will attract a crowd similar to the one that greeted the Blueboys when they invaded Southern Illinois to lose their only conference game.

Members of the Central Motor Sales bowling team are wondering whether Leland Perfix got lost in the Wednesday night fog. Perfix, who lives out around Markham, wanted to bowl with the Central Cardinals, present conference leaders.

Western has four games ahead, meeting Bradley, Knox, DeKalb Normal and Shurtleff before the end of the season. Thus the two teams will play 13 games during the conference season.

OLD RIVALSTO BATTLE IT OUT THIS WEEK END

Valley, M. S. M., and Teams Not-Attached Booked For Tussles

Now that old king basketball is getting ready to put on his last fling, the district tournaments, leading to the sectionals and the state finals, high school teams in this neighborhood are getting back to the business of rubbing elbows with their old rivals once more. Plenty of activity is offered over the Illinois Valley, M.S.M. and among the teams either attached or playing teams from other conferences.

Chief of the old rivalry engagements will send Roodhouse out against White Hall on the recently remodeled Roodhouse court. White Hall had high hopes of going places in the Illinois Valley conference, and carried the leaders, Jerseyville, into one overtime on the Jerseyville court. Roodhouse, however, defeated them on the White Hall court, handing them a second set-back and virtually wrecking their chances for the title.

However, White Hall will entertain Jerseyville on the White Hall floor in a return engagement Saturday night, another battle that is expected to produce plenty of fireworks. Jerseyville can drop one game and still win the championship on percentage points, but the Jays do not want to get in a damaged position.

Another of the old rivalry games Friday night will pit Greenfield and Carrollton at the Greene county seat, and Pleasant Hill and Hull at Hull. Ashland and Pleasant Plains, and Franklin and New Berlin also will renew their rivalry.

The complete schedule:

Friday Night
White Hall at Roodhouse.
Greenfield at Carrollton.
Pittsfield at Havana.
Pleasant Hill at Hull.
Griggsville at Perry.
Franklin at New Berlin.
Chanderville at Forest City.
Ashland at Pleasant Plains.
Macomb at Rockbridge.

Saturday Night
Jerseyville at White Hall.
Griggsville at Pittsfield.
Beardstown at Macomb.

BUYING OF CORN
HOISTS GRAINS

By John P. Boughan

Chicago, Feb. 14.—(P)—Big buying of corn for industrial use gave all grain values a lift today, but the markets reacted later because of pressure to realize profits.

A new jump in hog quotations to the topmost point since 1930 provided early impetus for corn price upturns. On the other hand, corn feeding demand apparently dwindled later on account of market advances. There were reports, too, that a bumper crop of new corn was expected in Argentina.

Corn closed irregular, 1 cent lower to 1 higher compared with yesterday's finish. May 85-1, wheat 1-1 down. May 98-1, oats at 1-1 decline, and provisions varying from 10 cents setback to a rise of 5 cents.

Corn scored a maximum gain of nearly a cent a bushel before beginning to react. Relative strength of corn in contrast with wheat was more or less due to the circumstance that provisions as well as live hogs were today exceeding previous top price records. Trade authorities said consumer demand for corn was making its appearance in a definite manner, despite a tendency most other lines evinced to delay new business for a time.

SWINE PRICES
MOVE HIGHER

Chicago, Feb. 14.—(P)—Despite lack of improvement in dressed pork demand, hog prices moved upward again today to a top of $8.55, best price here since December 4, 1930.

What was perhaps of greater significance was the fact that today's average price, $8.30, was also the highest since the end of 1930. Shortened year supplies were at the background of the increase, as consumer demand has shown no particular interest and the decline in storage pork is regarded as only seasonal.

Receipts were 16,000, including 6,000 direct, plus 1,000 holdovers. Shippers took 2,500 and the holdover remained at 1,000. Heavy butchers brought $8.40 to $8.50 and good packing sows $7.40 to $7.85. Lighter grades brought $7.40 to $8.40.

In the cattle pens, with only 5,000 and 1,500 vealers in, buyers refused to raise prices on strictly choice fed steers, despite a real scarcity. Best offerings sold at $13.75. On lower grades and on she-stock there was more action and interest and prices here moved up 25 cents. Bulls were up a dime and vealers 50 cents.

Slaughter lambs sold off finally as much as 35 cents, with 13,000 new animals waiting buyers. Top was $8.75, but most good to choice cooled lambs brought $8.25 to $8.65. Feeding lambs were weaker, ewes unchanged at $4.50 to $5.

SECURITY MARTS
SICK AS KITTEN

By Frank MacMillen
Associated Press Financial Writer
New York, Feb. 14.—(P)—Security markets showed the animation of a sick kitten today and the leading commodities were no more lively.

With the exception of a few specialties which got up a bit on small volume, the equity list just settled back more firmly in its narrow trading rut.

Dividend news was mostly constructive. Neiser Bros, a chain store specialty which has attracted more following recently, declared an initial quarterly dividend of 25 cents and an extra of 50 cents on its common stock. Among the regular payments announced during the session were Union Pacific, American Radiator and Heat Exchange, and Consolidated Natural Gas.

Turnover in the stock exchange was a little better than in the previous session, but still abnormal at 403,326 shares. The Associated Press average for 60 stocks rose 1 of a point to 38.6. The rail and utility averages showed no net change for the session, while the industrials were a shade improved.

"THE LADY DANCES" by MARGE STANLEY

CHAPTER XXXIII

Then, suddenly, a new sound broke in upon her dismal meditations, a high, wild, bitter sound. Loring was singing. And, fact unprecedented in her experience, he was singing sober by daylight.

"There is a land where white, clean snow
In winter falls, and cold winds blow
Across a hill where pine trees grow
But not in Tongatabu!"

Vanya drew sharply back; she shuddered as the shrill tones continued.

"There is a land (by Heaven)
Of kindly face and friendly hand
And honest men! There is a land—
But not in Tongatabu!"

There is a land that's cool and green
Of valleys fair and rivers clear—
That prisons men like Hong and Shene,
But not in Tongatabu!

A land of neither palm nor spice,
But town and moor and cool, grey lee.
England's its name—or Paradise—
But not in Tongatabu!"

"Oh God!" said Vanya, "Now—now again I hate that man!"

"The dirty, rotten bum!" said Shene. "Some day I'll learn him to make songs at me! The sailor scum takes 'em up; I hear 'em clear to Papete."

"I can't stand it!" Vanya murmured to herself. "If he sings again—"

But the song was not repeated. When she glanced out of the door, Loring's palm was deserted, and only the steadily lengthening shadow of the tree occupied the place where he was accustomed to lie.

The girl was shaken; the bitter wistfulness of the song had struck her with unusual effect, the more so because of the strain under which she was laboring. She leaned against the corner of the bar, and closed her eyes for a moment; for a little while, she felt, she could not bring herself to step into the clearing, not while Mark was pacing his about her back and forth along the beach beside the prau. Or was he still waiting? She had no idea how much time had elapsed since his threat. She glanced at the tarnished alarm clock standing behind the bar; less than fifteen minutes had passed. It seemed to her that the laws of time had been suspended, so slowly did the minutes creep by.

Shene cleared his throat, preparatory to speaking. She started at the sound; she had quite forgotten the presence of both the giant and the mountainous Hong.

"You're wise to go by night," rumbled the great tones of Shene. "It's the better trip, cooler and pleasant."

The girl made no answer; she remained leaning against the bar, her enveloping robe clutched tightly about her. The shadows, minute by minute, were growing longer as if the sun were plunging toward the horizon. Half an hour would bring darkness, and darkness would bring the crew of the Kermadec, and she would dance, how could she dance? With Mark moving somewhere out on the Pacific, toward Taulanga, away from her forever! That didn't matter; she'd have to dance. She wouldn't sing tonight, she would dance, as a taunt, sung after Mark. He couldn't know, of course, but she thought he'd guess. He'd be wondering, imagining; she'd see that his imaginings, for short of the fact! No matter how vividly he pictured her, in an act not be vicious enough. She glanced again at the clock behind the bar.

She placed her almost untouched glass of wine on the table, and watched the tides on the beach. Mark and Loring were in earnest discussion; she could see Mark's tense and serious face against the green background of the sea; and Loring, with his back toward her, gestured in the intensity of his argument.

"Discussing me, of course," she thought. "Let them! I'll give them something to discuss after tonight!" Shene's growl obtruded itself into her field of thought.

"Good wine to drink while it's cool," he was saying. "Don't spoil it by letting it warm up; there's plenty more of it."

Vanya indifferently took another sip of the wine; the sweet taste seemed more pronounced. It was the taste of no port wine she had ever, in her limited drinking experience, encountered.

She watched the movements of Mark and Loring on the beach. They talked; they talked interminably. Their long black shadows repeated in accurate detail each pose and gesture that they made; the shadows stood close together, and engaged it seemed to her, in an argument of their own. And inch by inch they grew taller on the

So few minutes had passed! Still more than ten minutes of the half hour left, to be suffered through somehow. Shene was rumbling again; his voice sounded like the low mutter of summer thunder among the mountains of her home. Gradually his words penetrated her consciousness.

"And I was thinking it's only right to show some appreciation," he was growling. "So I got out a bottle of port; it ain't the kind I sell. I just got the one bottle; there ain't another like it on the islands. I wouldn't open it for many, I tell you."

She looked at him questioning. She hadn't heard his remarks, and, looking up to this discussion of his special brand of port.

"So we'll have a drink of it," he concluded. "You'll have a farewell drink with me, won't you?"

"We'll have a farewell drink together!" repeated Pearl Shene to Vanya. "The best port this side of Ceylon."

The girl stared at him dully. "Come, girl!" he rumbled. "A farewell drink with me, won't you?"

His words dawned on her; why not? Perhaps a drink of wine might clear the muddled turmoil of her mind; she needed a stimulant of some sort.

She moved to one of the outer tables, and sat facing the window that overlooked the bay. The Kermadec was out there, and there was Mark, pacing beside his black padlock. She was approaching him—Loring! She saw Mark glance at the building; she could see him, but, doubtless, in the shadow of the room, she herself was invisible to him.

Shene had dropped ponderously into a chair opposite her; she hardly saw him, and was hardly conscious of Hong's elephantine figure. She realized that he had placed a glass of wine on the table before her.

"A farewell drink, girl," rumbled Shene, raising his glass. "Here's luck to you!"

Vanya raised her glass mechanically to her lips, and took a tiny sip of its contents. The wine was good; apparently Shene had chilled the bottle in the spring, for the liquid was deliciously cool. And yet, it hadn't quite the taste of port; there was a cloying sweetness in the smell of it, and a saccharine quality in the taste. One couldn't drink much of this, she thought, watching Mark in his conversation with the beach-comber.

"Why cause won't be helped by Loring," she mused. "He hates me too much to do anything that might help me."

She placed her almost untouched glass of wine on the table, and watched the tides on the beach. Mark and Loring were in earnest discussion; she could see Mark's tense and serious face against the green background of the sea; and Loring, with his back toward her, gestured in the intensity of his argument.

They came down to breakfast this morning shortly after 9 o'clock, looking somewhat refreshed and very patently relieved that the strain was over.

N. D. Bachelors And Spinsters Facing Rather Tough Life

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 14.—(P)—Life is going to be pretty tough on bachelors and spinsters in North Dakota if State Representative Harry O'Brien, who is married, has his way about it. O'Brien introduced a bill which would tax all bachelors $12 a year and spinsters $4.

O'Brien's bill defines bachelors as "unmarried males over 21 years of age," and spinsters, "unmarried females 30 years or over."

Under the bill violations would be made a misdemeanor with punishment not to exceed 30 days in the county jail, a $100 fine, or both.

Divorced persons, he insisted, must come under the act—widows and widowers, however, would be exempted.

Ralph Woods of Franklin was a business caller in the city yesterday.

Heaney the Magician

Heaney, world famous magician, will appear tonight at the high school auditorium in a performance starting at 8 o'clock.

Heaney is a former assistant to Houdini, the greatest magician that ever lived, and comes to Jacksonville highly recommended. His program is replete with surprises. It is opened with "Creation," a presentation that takes the audience back to Biblical times. One feature of the evening will be when Alov, the "wonder girl," floats out over the audience in a spectacular illusion.

The program runs along at high speed with rabbits peeping out of the coat-tails of spectators, cards appearing from the mouths of boys, and finally Alice stepping out of wonderland in a spectacle that will amuse young and old. There is also the canary cage that vanishes faster than chained lightning and a complete list of the best tricks known to modern sleight-of-hand artists.

Heaney's appearance tonight follows a performance at a special assembly in the high school this morning. He fulfilled a two day engagement in Joliet a few days ago. He is considered one of the finest exponents of the art of magic in the United States today.

Heaney's presentation this evening will be sponsored by the high school.
